

The Covid-19 Poem

We're going through the toughest times as everyone's aware, the Covid isn't choosy, because it simply doesn't care.

It targets those both near and wide, the well off and the poor, it's claimed so many lives each day, not knowing what's in store.

But the vaccination is a certain guarantee for every person worldwide, for other people and for me.

It takes more than just a simple prayer, before the world is right, but with each vaccination, we can win the Covid fight.

Let's bring hope for the future, no matter how long it may take. And look out for each other, and the difference it can make.....

Elizabeth Schaffner - March 2021